Edgar A. Guest

A poet among the "best-sellers!" Yes—it's a fact. Those who are familiar with Edgar A. Guest's work know why. His is the poetry of everyday life. There is no striving after the bizarre, the fantastic or the unreal. Mr. Guest writes the kind of verse that everyday folks can read and enjoy—verse that is refreshing and wholesome and eminently human in quality.

RETAIL PRICES

IN accepting the report from the Board of Trade, the American Booksellers' Association affirm the true principle of retail trade in the case of books—a book should be so priced by the publisher, that the advertised price should be that at which it is sold in normal conditions to the retail customer. It is notorious that customers even in absolutely standardized trades are always eager to have themselves made an exception to the rule, even where there is no ground for exception. But on the other hand there are customers who purchase under exceptional circumstances, as libraries, and in such case the American Booksellers' Association accepts the principle that there may rightly be a special tho limited discount. In view of the large over-head cost of retailing books any bookseller who does business on any other basis really courts failure.

It is to be kept in mind, however, that this principle of retail selling is one which must be accepted by the bookseller for himself and which cannot be enforced, under present laws and their court interpretation, by trade restriction on the part of any body of dealers. The courts consider it a conspiracy in restraint of trade and it must be carefully avoided. It is up to the common sense and business judgment of every bookseller to apply this sound principle independent of any united action which can possibly be construed as against the law.

As Mr. Butler said in his report, referring to Wanamaker's announced elimination of all discounts to customers: "With this striking example before us, it certainly should be an incentive for each of us to carefully consider a similar step for himself, irrespective of the action of our competitor, for fair dealing must and will win out in the end; and we urge the trade as a whole to endeavor to bring about these reforms to the end that fair and equitable methods of merchandising may prevail."

The net price has shown its value to the trade as an acceptance of this principle on the part of publishers. That books have been kept at a fair price is sufficiently shown by the fact that increases in book prices have by no means kept pace with increases in their material and labor cost. This should be made clear by retailers to their customers and comparatively few will object to paying this fair price if its fairness is made known to them. Only on this basis can retail bookselling do for the whole country the service which it is so well equipped to do.

FREIGHT RATES AND THE BUYER

A 43¾ per cent increase in freight rates since last year! Fifteen per cent added six months ago and now a 25 per cent increase on top of that to take effect within a month.

This means careful planning for the retail bookseller and patient work in perfecting and systematizing all buying plans for the fall season. Never was there a more difficult season to plan for in advance, and yet nothing is more sure than that he who delays in starting his shipments of staple goods is going to be caught without stock to sell when the busier months come.

The travellers are now making their calls and during the next three months the buyers of the different sections of the country will be checking catalogs, inspecting lines, drawing up orders and giving instructions for shipment. What is to be the keynote, the general policy of the good buyer facing war-time interests and the problems of this tremendous increase in transportation?

In general totals he will probably count on a good fall and holiday business, not on expensive items perhaps, but on the sound substantial items that add up to good totals. He has had one fall and winter of war business and knows what lines failed to interest people and what demanded re-orders. If he has noticed the changes in paper prices of the last two months he may conclude to prepare for possible fall increases in prices. He will remember that there are many staple lines that cannot fail him, even in these every-hour shifts in public reading; Bibles, testaments, children's books, atlases, technical and business books, European history, fiction, and all the other groups that his recent experience suggests, and on these he will make his advance estimates with far more than usual care that as much of the needed stock as possible may come by the summer freights.

The buyer will not forget, either, that if, in the past, it has been poor business to handle books at a short discount, this year it is suicidal. Bookstores handle merchandise that has, in almost every case, an advertised selling price that cannot be increased. With the increased costs of doing business such as the freight increase the margin of net profit must be maintained by a careful selection of lines to be carried, by a complete avoidance of short discount goods, by increased attention to energetic merchandising and by care, thoroughness, and then more care in making up the fall orders.

These are the most important three months in a buyer's 1918. By correctness of the plans he now makes will be governed his store's ability to meet fall demands for staples and at the same time keep the way clear for quick decisions in the fall.

THE letter of Secretary Baker which unfortunately came too late for the Booksellers' Convention will hearten booksellers everywhere in their patriotic service of selling books on the war which show the people what it really means. It is good to have this recognition from so high a sort and booksellers should reciprocate by making every effort to bring the best war books to the attention of their patrons.

FRENCH WAR-TIME LITERATURE

OF the eternal, ever-renewed vitality of France abundant evidence is to be seen in all branches of her activity. But in no way, according to a writer in a special supplement to the London Athenaeum devoted to "French Literature during the War," is this better shown than in her literary production—both in poetry and in prose—during the tragedy of the War. This "deep capacity for rebirth" is manifest to-day even in so small a portion of French literature as has been produced upon her very battle-fields, in the heat of the conflict, under appalling conditions. It is not a new spirit; it is a spirit renewed.

"Yet it is but fair to recognize that prior to the War the great spiritual upheaval thru which French literature is now passing, and which differentiates it from the literature of the end of the nineteenth and beginning of the twentieth centuries, had already begun. There are many evident proofs of this among the younger writers whose new works were published just immediately before the great conflagration. Perhaps it was that the old spirit of pessimism, born among the vanquished of 1870, was itself worn out and was gradually being replaced by a more hopeful spirit. Perhaps it was that almost unconsciously the younger generations felt that they were destined to live thru more tragic years. But the old shibboleths were crumbling away and a new generation was arising, full of eager hopes, possessing a more healthy outlook upon life.

"The new literature is rather broadly spiritual than confined merely to the old Catholic formulas and dogmas. Barrès in his last book, 'Les Diverses Familles Spirituelles de la France,' shows this more thoroly than has been done before. (Barrès, author of Undying Spirit of France. Yale Univ. Press.) Some have tried to call this new evolution of literary thought Catholic Realism. But the term is inappropriate because not all of the new writers have accepted a form of recognized religious belief.

"The forerunners were such men as Charles Péguy, whose stirring 'Hymne aux Morts' was published only a week or two before he fell on the battle-field of the Marne; and Ernest Psichari—the grandson of Ernest Renan. It would be impossible here to do more than name those writers whose efforts already pointed to the renaissance before they gave up their lives to their country." Besides Péguy and Psichari there were Clermont, de Roure, Nolly, de Cassagnac, Max Doumic, Drouet, Paul Acker, Paul Lintier, whose "Ma Pièce" (My '75. Doran & Co.) has been widely read, and the anonymous author of the "Lettres d'un Soldat." (A Soldier of France to His Mother. Trans. by T. Stanton. McClurg.) Another of these hero-writers was Adrien Bertrand, whose "Appel du Sol" won for him the Goncourt Academy prize.

Réne Benjamin, creator of "Gaspard" (Brentano's) is another of France's young authors whom the war has brought to the fore.

"But the book which of all others is pre-eminently the book of this war and which will live thru all times is 'Le Feu,' by Henri Barbusse. [The widely commended "Under Fire" published in translation by Dutton.] French readers had made the acquaintance of this author's work some years before the outbreak of the war, when he published his remarkable but very daring book, 'L'Enfer,' of which Anatole France wrote: 'Voici le livre d'un homme.'" One critic of "Le Feu" summarizes the book thus: "It is the one literary effort of the war which is itself adequate to the military effort of the French nation." And the sentence may be said to resumé this wonderful achievement.

This spirit of reawakened vitality naturally appears prominently in the poetry of France which is become "a more candid, more vital, more authentic thing. . . . French poetry in our generation has pursued such various shapes of beauty that its common characteristics are hard to define. . . . After an interval of experimental anarchy, which seemed to deepen the gulf between the business of words and the greater interests of humanity, but really betokened a revulsion from the sterility of merely reproductive verse, it has become, in its finer examples, a more familiar and a more responsive art, averse from declamation, contemptuous of athletic perfections, preoccupied by a scruple of sincerity. It is not always readily accessible but it tends more and more to be simple in this sense, that it is increasingly concerned with the things that matter to all men. . . . As it happens, the character of the Great War has confirmed what must be called, in a word, the better understanding between art and life.

In the realm of collected verse and poetry, however, "Emile Verhaeren's last book, 'Les Ailes rouges de la Guerre,' has been read by every admirer of the great Fleming, who had probably more admirers in the world than any other poet of our time. M. Paul Fort was the first French poet to publish a whole substantial book of poetry on the supreme ordeal, which is in a special sense an ordeal for so gay and volatile a temperament as his. 'Poèmes de France' (the 19th volume in a series of French ballads) show all the qualities, and also the shortcomings, of its predecessors.

"When I read M. Paul Claudel's 'Trois Poèmes de Guerre' two years ago, I thought the high water mark of French (and indeed of all) war poetry had been reached with them. I return to them after reading much else that exhibits different kinds of excellence, and I am still of the same opinion. . . . By the overpowering sense of immortal issues which his poems convey and by the synthetic quality of the emotion they excite, M. Claudel leaves other poets of the War behind him.

In the recent drama of France no one tendency stands out very clearly. At the outbreak of war in 1914 experimental forms were in process of trial. "There were versions of old themes, and efforts to retell old plots or to set the stage in a new way. There was a visible and growing insistence on simplicity of plot, and on simplicity of emotional expression. By the use of realistic treatment of a restrained and moderate kind, a naive effort was being made to criticize the older stage conventions. All types of drama alike showed this tendency, tho the 'genres' remained distinct."

"It is evident that when in 1915 France was gathering up all her inherent courage to face a long war, the most successful plays put upon the stage were those with a patriotic and moral significance—plays that would define emotion, and give character to the quality of self-restraint and discipline in the nation. This condition lasted thru 1915, but in the winter of that year, as the War continued, and the outlook caused by the War became a habit, efforts to recover life on the stage slackened and failed, and a period of stagnation set in. The crisis was too sustained and severe, too significant to the whole of the nation, for any dramatic expression of the emotion produced to be at all bearable."

"Speculation is rife about the future of the drama in France. One set of writers is inclined to believe in an upspringing of forcible work, which will suit the courage of the men who have seen their country thru the War. Others think that nothing has greatly changed; life is subdued, but is essentially the same; and the years after the War may give us the same blend of sentiment and irony, of realism and imagination, that characterizes the best work of the moment, from which the crude and the artificial elements will tend to disappear."

BOUQUETS ARE NOT DANGEROUS

[One of the best house organs that we have ever seen is called The House of Crocker. It's from San Francisco, of course. We quote from vol. 2, no. 2.—ED. P. W.]

ONE of the pleasing incidents of our last Jazz Dinner was the way in which Mr. C. H. Crocker, President of the H. S. Crocker Co., stood up and fearlessly tossed bouquets at the salesmen who earned bonuses during the past year—who "went over the top." I say "fearlessly" advisedly, for many employers think it a dangerous practice to compliment subordinates, to pat them on the back for services well performed, for records well made, the danger they scent being that the words of praise, of commendation are liable to swell the employees' heads. A mistaken idea.

Words of cheer, of encouragement, a pat on the back, the cordial grip of the hand never stood a really good man, a strong man up before the full-length mirror, there to smile at himself, smooth his raiment and toss violets at his wonderful person; in other words, give him the swelled head. On the contrary, it gets the man really worth while up on his toes, fills his whole being with enthusiasm and loyalty, and a determination to show the boss his confidence has been well placed.

So, let the bouquets come, singly or in showers, there is no danger.

THE THIRD LIBERTY LOAN

THE final figures of the Rainbow Division of the Liberty Loan Committee, Third Federal Reserve District show a grand total of subscriptions from publishers, printers and binders in and about New York of $6,418,000 as against $1,696,550, the total of the Second Loan, an increase of nearly three hundred per cent. With one exception it is the best record of any of the thirty trades grouped under "Class B."

HOW ONE BOOKSELLER DID PATRIOTIC WORK DURING THE LIBERTY LOAN DRIVE. WHITLOCK'S BOOK STORE, NEW HAVEN, ADVERTISED THAT EVERY PAYMENT MADE ON ACCOUNT ON MAY 3 WOULD BE INVESTED IN LIBERTY BONDS. NOT A BAD WAY TO COLLECT ACCOUNTS.

PATRIOTIC PUBLISHERS WILL ADVERTISE W. S. S. ON BOOK JACKETS

THE government report on War Savings Stamps includes the following paragraph of interest to the book-trade:—"In connection with War Savings Stamps, we have developed a new advertising medium—the back cover of book jackets. Literally hundreds of thousands, and very likely millions, of books on the spring lists of the leading American publishers bear advertisements of War Saving Stamps. This part of the work is now so well organized that by the time the fall lists of the publishing houses are in preparation we shall be able to have every book that goes from the presses to the American homes bear an advertisement of Thrift Stamps. Because of the permanent appeal in the War Savings Stamps they are being advertised on books, which certainly constitute a long-lived advertising medium."

THE VALUE OF TRADE JOURNALS

IN an article intended to point out to ambitious young men some of the steps that lead to business success, a writer in the Chicago Daily News emphasizes in the following language the importance of reading trade journals:

"All truly alert business men read trade journals as a matter of real necessity. They feel that it is impossible for them to continue progressing unless they keep abreast of the latest developments in their particular line of business as recorded in the journals they read.

He is, indeed, a wise young man who early becomes a subscriber and constant reader of a good journal dealing with his trade or line of business. From it he will learn how other men in the same trade have won success. Almost every week he will glean from it something of direct helpfulness."

This is sound advice not only for the young man entering business, but for him who is well established. The leaders in the business world of today are, as a rule, close readers of the trade journals devoted to their lines. The trade papers that are really worthy of a place in the first rank in their respective fields not only gather and present the news of all happenings of any importance in trade circles, supply valuable information and advice of a technical character, but also survey the entire field of business and interpret the events transpiring there in their relation to the particular trade or industry which they represent.

A CLEARING HOUSE FOR THE NEW YORK BOOK-TRADE

AT a meeting of the Booksellers' Association of the City of New York held on May 23rd, an important step forward was taken toward the inauguration of a clearing-house system for the gathering and redistribution of trade pick-ups.

A committee of the Association headed by Mr. Eisele of Brentano's, which has had the matter in charge for some months, made a report showing how war-time conditions had made it even more necessary than before that duplication of effort in gathering books should be eliminated, and the report gave assurance that R. F. Fenno, who has already the largest out-of-town enclosure business, was ready to undertake the local work.

This clearing house arrangement would mean that each New York City bookstore would mail its special pick-up orders each night to the various publishers. The publishers would handle these promptly in the early morning, it being a considerable saving of time to their employees to be able to handle all these at once instead of having an intermittent string of boys dropping in all day. The publishers would send them to Fenno's on 17th St. before eleven. Immediately they will be sorted, listed for the various retailers, and wrapped for call. The retailer sends a boy or a wagon to Fenno's and has the books ready for delivery to customers by the middle of the afternoon.

The report showed that there would be a tremendous saving in the number of boys needed by retailers and a great elimination of waste motion, and that the publishers' office would be freed of the constant calls and delayed visits of the list boys. Mr. Fenno had undertaken to carry on his part of the service for five cents per bundle.

Mr. McKeachie of the Baker & Taylor Co. spoke in opposition to the idea, as he felt that it would mean a falling off of their city business. Representatives from Dutton's, Macy's and Koch's spoke of the excellent trade service that Baker & Taylor Co. were giving.

In general discussion the Association seemed to feel that the new plan could not injure the interests of the jobber and was not intended in any way to disturb the relations of those who now purchased thru that channel. Mr. Butler reported that conferences with the publishers showed that they would do as the book-trade wished, but wished that the retailers agree completely on the system and give assurance that it would be permanently carried on.

On call for vote, it was moved and carried that the Association proceed to establish this service in the course of the next few weeks and that the Clearing House Committee proceed to enlist every retailer not already signed up.

BILLY SUNDAY SETTLES SUIT

ON the applications of the attorneys for the Rev. William A. Sunday, evangelist, Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum signed an order last week discontinuing the suit brought against Sunday by Hugh C. Weir for $50,000 damages for breach of a contract under which Weir alleged he wrote "Great Love Stories of the Bible" under Sunday's name, and was to have written other books in collaboration with the evangelist. Miss Lucille Pugh, attorney for Weir, who consented to the discontinuance, declined to discuss the terms of the settlement.

THE HOME SCHOOL FOR BOOKSELLERS

OWING to special duties that occupy Miss Graham for the summer months this series of lessons is discontinued until fall. As announced by Mr. Bowker at the Bookseller's Convention, the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY expect to systematize the material thus far published into the first volume of a Booksellers' Library and to make arrangements for the continuance of the lessons in September under Miss Graham's guidance.

We should be glad to receive at this office any suggestions, comments or corrections from those who have been following the course.

W. S. S. AND THE BOOK-TRADE

THE drive to promote the sale of War Savings Stamps in New York City is focused in an organization entitled the "Government War Savings Stamps Limit Investment Society," of which the Hon. Elihu Root is the honorary President. The quota of W. S. S. assigned to the book publishers of the city is now $70,000, having been raised from the original assignment of $40,000. Mr. Frederick A. Stokes, who is chairman of the Auxiliary Publishers' Committee, is giving much attention to an effort to secure pledges covering the amount. In several instances the maximum of one thousand, the limit permitted by any one person to own, has been taken individually by several members of the same concern, while in other offices the maximum has been pledged not only by the firm but also by its employees. As the payment of these pledges can be arranged to run during the year 1918, it ought to be possible to secure pledges for the full quota during the month of June and thus secure the desired 100 per cent record. Nothing finer in its way has come out of the war than this sterling incentive for all to save and form a habit that will bear fruit in the economic record of our country in the years to come.

 PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY will carry a special page entitled

MAKING GOOD IN WAR TIME

The retail bookseller is facing a period of many perplexities but of great possibilities. We shall try to gather on this weekly page practical suggestions and interesting sidelights on business conditions and new retail methods.
 Communications will be welcomed from retailers, publishers or travelers.

MAGGS BROS. EXPANDS

CHANGES and announcements from the book-trade of England are watched now with special interest in America as they may give us indications of how the war is affecting business. Probably no London house has wider correspondence here than Maggs Bros., and it is worth noting that they are, after four years of war conditions, moving into larger quarters at a more centrally located address, 34 and 35 Conduit St.,
 New Bond St., London, W.

BOOK-TRADE ASSOCIATIONS

Boston Booksellers Celebrate Final Dinner of the Season

The Boston Booksellers Association celebrated its May Dinner on the evening of the 22d with over one hundred booksellers, an orchestra, and a battery of four able speakers present. The speakers of the evening were Miss Root, and Miss Crocker, authors of "Over Periscope Pond" (Houghton Mifflin Co.), Dr. William Porter, author of "Shock at the Front" (Atlantic Monthly Press) and Mrs. Kenneth-Brown ("Demetra Vaka") author of "The Heart of the German Intrigue." Miss Root and Miss Crocker have been in Paris engaged in relief work since the end of 1916, and they told many of their experiences in war-time Paris. Dr. Porter, who was sent abroad by the Rockefeller Institution to study the phenomena of shock in the trenches, told most interestingly of the ravages of shock among the allied troops and of the steps being taken to prevent it. Mrs. Kenneth-Brown recounted some of her experiences on her startling journey from America to Athens to try to win over King Constantine to the Allied side.

Before the dinner President Schenck extended an invitation from the Riverside Press to the booksellers of Boston to visit the great Cambridge printing plant early in June. Three visiting days have been arranged—the 4th, 8th, and 11th—and the Boston booksellers are arranging to send one-third of their salespeople on each day. Mr. Schenck also read letters from Capt. Ticknor, now at the front, and from Capt. Knyvett's widow. Announcement was made that the first Boston boy to die at the front was Irvin W. Adams, son of Louis Adams of the Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co. Mr. Lauriat spoke briefly on the Booksellers' convention in New York, and aroused much enthusiasm over the prospect of the convention in Boston in 1919.

Boston aspires to have next year a booksellers' school to rival the schools of New York and Philadelphia, and to this end R. S. Lynd, former Managing Editor of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, now with the Atlantic Monthly Company, was appointed a committee of one to investigate and report to the Association on the best plan for inaugurating such a school in Boston.

The association plans to have a record-breaking field day during the Summer and the following sub-committee has been appointed to co-operate with the Entertainment Committee in arranging the details: Messrs. Everett (chairman), J. M. De Wolfe, Pitman Grainger, Blaisdel, Dragon, Weatherbee, A. H. Hall, Deshon, George Page, Souther, Combie, H. M. Hall, and Misses Beckford, Forbush, and Hopkins.

At the close of the dinner Mr. Lauriat stationed himself at the door with a German helmet and his oar-lock from the Lusitania, and it is an open question whether he succeeded in making more noise on the tin hat with the oar-lock than did the silver coins for the Red Cross that rained into the hat as the booksellers filed out.

Booksellers of the City of New York

The annual meeting of the New York Booksellers was held on May 23 at the Advertising Club. Mr. Chas. E. Butler was in the chair, and Capt. F. C. Stechert acted as secretary.

The treasurer, Theo. E. Shulte read an annual report, showing 100 members. There were over thirty present. The important business of a Clearing House was discussed and acted upon as reported in another column. Officers were re-elected as above. Steps were taken for the formation of a Booksellers' Association of the State of New York and most of those present asked for membership.

May Meeting of San Francisco Booksellers

Miss Fay King, cartoonist, and M. Jules Bois, author of "Super Love" and lecturer at the University of California on art, were guests at the May meeting of the San Francisco and Bay Counties Booksellers' Association.

Miss King made some kindly cartoons and a few clever remarks. She said that although raised on printer's ink, she read very few books. This unusual confession prompted the offer of a book a week for a year if Miss King would promise to read them. She promised, barring only telephone books and city directories.

The next regular meeting of the Association will be held in Alameda county for the greater convenience of the Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda members. Prof. Charles Mills Bayley of the University of California has been asked to address the members.

Illinois Booksellers Hold Annual Meeting

At the annual meeting of the Retail Booksellers' and Stationers' Association of Illinois, held at Galesburg, Ill., May 7 and 8, the following officers were elected: president, Fred Temple, of Galesburg; vice-president, W. R. Essicks, of Decatur; treasurer, Will H. Johnson, of Bloomington, and secretary, W. C. Miner, of Macomb.

About fifty booksellers were present. Walter Worsham, of Paris, Ill., with the A. L. Schaeffer Co., read a very instructive paper on "Successful Side Lines for the Bookseller," and Mrs. McCulloch, of Lord's, Evanston, Ill., spoke on selling the better book. General discussion was enjoyed.

At luncheon Tuesday the members of the association were the guests of the J. W. Wilcox & Follett Co. In the afternoon meeting Fred Greenwood, of Chicago, Mr. Bates, of Boston, and Mr. Natho, of Danville, Ill., talked on various subjects of helpful interest to the bookselling fraternity, and in the evening a most elaborate entertainment was provided by the Galesburg dealers. The principal speaker was Dr. Simonds, of Knox College.

On May 8, papers of interest were given by Miss Maud Abbott, of the W. B. Read Co., Bloomington, Ill., and G. A. Rathgeber, of Murphysboro, Ill. Automobiles took the delegates over the city of Galesburg to Knoxville, Ill. Luncheon was provided here by Temple & Carroll, F. L. Coad, Stromberg & Tenney and O. T. Johnson & Co.

Murphysboro, Ill., was selected as the next place of meeting and practically every member present pledged to be there, and also pledged to obtain a new member.

OBITUARY NOTES

REV. MINOT J. SAVAGE, well-known Unitarian minister and author of many books on religious and theologic subjects, died suddenly in Boston on May 22, at the age of seventy-seven. Dr. Savage preached for twenty years in the Church of Unity, Boston, and in 1896 was called to the Church of the Messiah, in New York City, where he remained for ten years and in 1906 retired on account of failing health. His writings include the following: "Christianity, the Science of Manhood," 1876; "Light on the Cloud," 1876; "Bluffton, a Story of Today," 1878; "Life Questions," 1879; "The Morals of Evolution," 1880; "Talks about Jesus," 1881; "Poems," 1882; "Belief in God," 1882; "Beliefs about Man," 1882; "Beliefs about the Bible," 1883; "The Modern Sphinx," 1883; "Man, Woman and Child," 1884; "The Religious Life," 1885; "Social Problems," 1886; "These Degenerate Days," 1887; "My Creed," 1887; "Religious Reconstruction," 1888; "Signs of the Times," 1889; "Helps for Daily Living," 1889; "Life," 1890; "Four Great Questions Concerning God," 1891; "The Irrepressible Conflict Between Two World-Theories," 1891; "The Evolution of Christianity," 1892; "Is This a Good World?" 1893; "Jesus and Modern Life," 1893; "A Man," 1895; "Religion for Today," 1897; "Our Unitarian Gospel," 1898; "Hymns," 1898; "The Minister's Hand-Book"; "Psychics, Facts and Theories"; "Life's Dark Problems," 1905; "Life Beyond Death," 1901; "The Passing and the Permanent in Religion," 1901; "Living by the Day," 1901; "Men and Women," 1902; "Can Telepathy Explain?" 1902; "Poems," 1905.

JAMES TEACKLE DENNIS, archaeologist and Oriental scholar, recently passed away at his home in Woodbrook, Md., in his fifty-third year. Mr. Dennis was noted for his work in excavating Egyptian monuments, and among his best-known discoveries was that of the tomb of Mentuhotep I., a pharaoh, who reigned between 2800 and 2700 B. C. Beside many scientific treatises he wrote "On the Shores of an Inland Sea," 1895; "The Burden of Isis," 1910, and "From Cataract to Equator," 1913.

IN MEMORIAM Ripley Hitchcock

The Board of Directors of Harper & Brothers, in special meeting this eighth day of May, 1918, in its own behalf and that of the officers and employees of the establishment individually, hereby places upon record the sorrow that has come to each of them personally and to the House in the sudden and untimely death of their friend and associate, RIPLEY HITCHCOCK. For twelve years, he has served this House in its Literary Department with signal zeal, untiring industry, and unswerving loyalty to its business interests, traditions, and ideals; ever upholding and embodying the highest standards of the publishing business at its best, and of American literature in its most substantial and constructive aspects. His unfailing instinct in the recognition of literary character and quality; his discriminating taste in the selection of material for publication; his alertness of vision and enthusiasm, have constituted factors of utmost value in the conduct of the work of Harper & Brothers.

And his admirable personal character, consideration for others, and his public spirit and patriotism in the largest significance of these terms, have won for him the respect and regard of his associates as friends, co-workers, and fellow-citizens. They receive the tidings of his passing with sincerest regret, with abiding sense of personal bereavement, and with keen appreciation of the fact that Harper & Brothers have sustained an irreparable loss.

Resolved, that this Minute be spread upon the permanent records of the corporation, and that a copy, suitably engrossed, be forwarded to the family Mr. Hitchcock, as an expression of deep sympathy and fellowship in sorrow.

COMMUNICATIONS

Manufacture Books During Summer For Winter Selling

Editor PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY:

It seems an opportune time for you as editor to remind publishers and catalog makers thruout the country to look ahead, and anticipate some of the difficulties we are bound to encounter next fall and winter.

The coal situation is bound to be serious. The question of securing efficient labor in the face of government requirements, and the draft, is daily growing more acute. The Government has just put a twenty-five per cent reduced output order into effect against the paper mills. Without doubt the next move will be the restriction of other manufacturing industries which can be properly classed as non-essential or least essential.

If the Coal Administrators' decision last winter is to be taken as a criterion, newspapers and magazines are to be considered essentials, while books and catalogs are to be considered non-essentials. Who knows?

All of this would indicate that publishers should plan to manufacture during the coming summer months as many of their publications as possible to carry them thru until next spring. Most of the printing plants are not overburdened, and while binders are running on fairly good schedule, this could be accomplished with economy, and would be the logical plan to follow.

J. F. TAPLEY COMPANY.

POSTAL NOTES

Postal Ruling for Books Sent to American Forces Abroad

Washington.

Editor PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY:

In reply to your letter of the 27th ultimo, I have to say that articles requested in letters from members of the American Expeditionary Forces in Europe approved by their regimental or higher commander in accordance with the provisions of Departmental Order No. 1259, (copy inclosed) should be described in order to avoid confusion. Therefore, members of the Expeditionary Forces requesting books be sent them should give the titles or names of the books desired.

Respectfully,

A. M. DOCKERY,
Third Assistant Postmaster General.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES

ADD TO THE list of suggestions for patriotic food-economy a book which should help many house-wives to settle the difficult problem of "jamming" and preserving this summer with sugar at such a premium! Frederick F. Rockwell's "Save it for Winter" (Stokes), describes in detail the method of dehydrating—drying—vegetables and fruits in order to save them for winter use. This process, said to be economical and satisfactory, is surely worth trying at a time when "preserving" must not defeat the principle of conserving.

THOSE WHO have followed Arthur Howden Smith's "The Real Colonel House," which has been running in many of the newspapers throughout the United States for the last few months, will be glad to know that Doran has listed this biography among its early June publications.

OWING TO a printer's error, the price of "The Adventures of Arnold Adair, American Ace," by Laurence La Tourette Driggs was given as $1.25 n. in Little, Brown & Co.'s advertisement in the Summer Reading number instead of $1.35 n., as correctly stated in the list of books for vacation reading in the same issue.

H. G. WELLS' "In the Fourth Year" (Macmillan) includes a preface of bibliographical suggestions, most useful for those interested in any method for making the world safe in the future. First of all on the list he places Theodore Marburg's "League of Nations," characterizing it as "a straightforward account of the American side of the movement by the former United States Minister to Belgium. Robert Goldsmith's excellent "League to Enfore Peace," H. N. Brailsford's "League of Nations," "a classic of the movement in England," and John A. Hobson's, "Towards International Government," "a very sympathetic contribution," are also included.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS, at the request of the National Security League, have withdrawn from sale Ellen Key's "War, Peace, and the Future," because of alleged unpatriotic sentiments expressed in this book, which was published before the United States entered the war. According to Sidney H. Putnam, secretary. Putnam's has authorized the National Security League to request the public libraries to withdraw the book from circulation.

HARPER & BROS. announces that prices of all cloth bound titles of Mark Twain's works in the trade edition will become net on June 1st. "Joan of Arc" which has been $2.50 regular will become $2 net. The catalog prices of the other titles will remain the same, the only difference being that they will be net. Harper's Young People's Series will be made 60c. net each instead of regular as heretofore on the same date.

GRIMLY TRAGIC, and yet finely symbolic of the splendid comradeship between airmen, and particularly interesting to Americans just now, when Raol Lufbery, the American Ace, has just been killed, is "The War Letters of Edmond Genêt," which Scribner's is publishing early in June. A letter from Lufbery describing Genêt's death is included in this volume, from which the following quotation is given: "As Edmond Genêt was one of my best friends I will be able to tell your everything I know about his death. One afternoon, at half-past two, Genêt and I were ordered to make a patrol on the lines between St. Quentin and La Fère. I was leading and everything seemed to be all right. At about 3 o'clock somewhere around Moy the German anti-aircrafts started to shell us. I saw very plainly three shells bursting right behind Genêt's machine about one hundred yards from it. As we get that very often I did not pay much attention to it. Many times I myself had been shelled much closer than that and nothing had happened. Anyway, I don't know if he got hit or not, but he suddenly turned around and went toward the French lines. Soldiers who saw him fall say that the machine got in a cork-screw drive at about 1,400 yards high, finally a wing came off and the whole thing crashed on the ground. * * *

CATALOG RESTRICTIONS

THE English publishers and second-hand book-trade are making a joint announcement with regard to catalog distribution. Owing to war legislation publishers and booksellers may send their catalogs only to customers requesting them in writing.

THE BOOKLOVER'S HOUSE

Books!

Look!

Everywhere you look you see a book!

Such a house you never saw,

Spick and span, without a flaw,

But everywhere you look you see a book.

Books in the reception room,

More books in the sitting room,

Books in every room for every use;

In the kitchen for the cook,

In the bedroom there's a nook,

If you want to read there's no excuse.

Tales to while an idle hour,

Studies to increase your power,

Treatises designed to make you wise;

Books for sadness, books for gladness,

Books to drive away madness,

Books to make your gloomy spirits rise.

Outdoor books,

Indoor books,

Books with which to travel o'er the sea;

Funny books,

Sunny books,

Books with which you love to bide-a-wee.

Boyhood books,

Manhood books,

Books to halt the coming old age;

Camping books,

Tramping books,

Books that hold you till the final page.

Faithful friends,

Silent friends,

Standing side by side upon our shelves;

Waiting friends,

Serving friends,

Representing all our various selves.

—STUART CLOSE in the Brooklyn Eagle.

Two men were hotly discussing the merits of a book. Finally, one of them, himself an author, said to the other: "No, John, you can't appreciate it. You never wrote a book yourself."

"No," retorted John, "and I never laid an egg, but I'm a better judge of an omelet than any hen."

By Henry W. Fischer

Limited Edition. Three large volumes, illustrated in photogravure, bound in cloth, gilt tops, leather labels, $15.00

This book, which has been written up in the New York World during the past few weeks, is described by that paper as containing "views as relentlessly lifelike as a photographic negative before retouching," and as "unique and startling."

Fischer's Secret Memoirs show to a nicety how the stately figures of the royal stage conduct themselves when relieved of the observation of pit and gallery, for whose overawing they wear the cothurnus and the mask.

ARE AT THE COMMAND OF PUBLISHERS, MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS EVERYWHERE

Booksellers--Attention!*The First of Every Month

will be observed as

Thrift Stamp Day
In The U. S. A.

The first Thrift Stamp Day went over big! It proved a tremendous boost for Uncle Sam's Thrift Stamps and War Savings Stamps campaign and for American business in general. As a result of the great success of the first Thrift Stamp Day it has been decided to make the First Day of every month Thrift Stamp Day in the U. S. A.!

This means that every branch of American business has the unusual opportunity to make the first of every month a red letter business day throughout the Nation, and a Victory day for the U. S. Government by disposing of hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of Thrift Stamps and War Savings Stamps!

So get busy at once in preparation for these red letter business days—these monthly Thrift Stamp Days! Manufacturers, jobbers, wholesalers, retailers, get together and plan for special Thrift Stamp Day sales, unusual values in every line of merchandise and commodity. It's up to you to help the Government and help yourselves at the same time.

Profit by your experiences of the first Thrift Stamp Day to make the succeeding Thrift Stamp Days still more of a success! Redouble your former efforts and you'll double the results! If any of you should still be unfamiliar with the working plan for Thrift Stamp Day, write for this plan today without fail. Address W. Ward Smith, National War Savings Committee, 51 Chambers St., New York City.

Reference List of New Publications

Recorded in MAY, 1918

This Reference List includes and classifies all books entered in the annotated Weekly Record during the past month, together with additional titles not therein listed, covering law and medicine, many government documents, university publications, pamphlets, and books of limited character. All works are here entered under (1) author, in Clarendon type, anonymous books having Clarendon type for the first word; (2) title in Roman; (3) subject-heading in CAPS and SMALL CAPS; (4) name of series in Italics. Under subject entries asterisks (*) designate books previously entered in the Weekly Record, in most cases with descriptive annotation.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederick; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

For books received sizes are given in caps, Q. O. D., etc.; for books not received sizes are given in Roman numerals, 4°, 8°, 12°, etc. Prices are added except when not supplied by publisher or obtainable only on specific request. Where not specified the binding is cloth.

Those desiring to learn the entire publishing output of the month in any one field should look under one of the following MAIN HEADINGS:

PHILOSOPHY	MEDICINE	LITERATURE
RELIGION AND THEOLOGY	AGRICULTURE	POETRY
SOCIOLOGY	HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS	DRAMA
LAW	BUSINESS	FICTION
EDUCATION	ENGINEERING, TECHNOLOGY	BIOGRAPHY
PHILOLOGY	FINE ARTS	GEOGRAPHY AND TRAVEL
SCIENCE	GAMES, SPORTS, AMUSEMENTS	HISTORY

Besides the titles listed under each of these headings cross reference is made from each to a limited number of cognate headings which collectively give all the new publications of the month in the given subject or group of subjects.

Inquirers looking for books on a specific topic should look under the general subject to which that topic belongs, i. e., GEOLOGY rather than SILURIAN PERIOD; MATHEMATICS rather than CALCULUS; ECONOMICS rather than WAGES. Books regarding specific Religious denominations, countries and persons, however, should still be sought for under their individual names.

Professor Latimer's Progress

Anonymous. Illustrated, $1.40 net

A distinguished American author wrote this anonymous novel to "get the war off his chest."

The N. Y. Tribune says:

"It would not be easy to compare it with other books unless we harked back to Holmes's immortal 'Autocrat' and 'Professor.'"

The New York Times says:

"A book delightful—and more. Brilliantly written, a keen intellectual delight. The characters are irresistible."

Rekindled Fires

BY JOSEPH ANTHONY

Color frontispiece, $1.40 net

The new American novelist of the season. Here is a remarkable new, realistic novel. The theme is youth and Americanization; the story is of Old World ideals rekindled on new hearths, as shown in the fine relation between an Old World father and a New World son. The scene is a village on the edge of the Jersey meadows. There is humor, broad humanity and a touch of romance.

"These people are human beings. . . . 'Michael Zabransky' is a figure comparable to old 'Vance,' and perhaps even more convincingly real. . . . Comes very near to being a masterpiece."—N. Y. Evening Sun.

Hope Trueblood

By "PATIENCE WORTH"

Edited by CASPAR S. YOST

$1.50 net

In this new novel of mid-Victorian days with its pervading sense of dark mystery, Patience Worth abandons her archaic dialect, and writes in modern English. The story is of Hope Trueblood, born in a little English village without the knowledge of a father, and suffering all that this stain inflicts in such a community. The inter-play of emotion, suspense and quiet humor make for unusually sustained interest.

"The dramatic power displayed in the narrative . . . stamps it as a work approximating absolute genius."—N. Y. Tribune.
